AKP Phnom Penh, May 03, 2013 —

Cambodian Minister of Information H.E. Khieu Kanharith has strongly reacted against the report of U.S. watchdog Freedom House on Freedom of the Press 2013, which ranked Cambodia to 149th among 196 countries.

The reaction was made when the minister led a delegation of national and international journalists to lay wreaths in memory of war correspondents and journalists killed and missing in 1970-1975 Cambodian war, at a memorial in front of Raffles Hotel Le Royal in Phnom Penh on May 3.

"This is an unacceptable report as the writer does not know Cambodia well, he just sits in the office and listens to this and that, then mixes them together," said H.E. Khieu Kanharith.

"We don't care about the report, the important thing is what we are doing so that our people have access to press freedom and to secure freedom of expression in all media," he added.

All media professional speakers, who attended a workshop to mark the World Press Freedom Day held on May 3, 2013 at Himawari Hotel, recognized that the press freedom and the journalists' safety in Cambodia is better than other countries in the region, said H.E. Minister. This event was presided over by H.E. Khieu Kanharith and hosted by UNESCO Phnom Penh Office and the Office of High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR) in cooperation with Konrad Adenaur Stiftung (KAS) Foundation, Cambodian Communication Institute (CCI), Club of Cambodian Journalists (CCJ), and the Department of Media and Communication (DMC) under the theme of "Safe to Speak: Securing Freedom of Expression in All Media".

Cambodia Stresses on the Importance of the Interpretation of the ICJ's 1962 Judgment

AKP Phnom Penh, April 19, 2013 – Cambodia, in the evening of Apr. 18, closed its oral arguments to the International Court of Justice (ICJ) in The Hague, on Cambodia's request to interpret the Court's Judgment of June 15, 1962 in the case concerning the Temple of Preah Vihear.

Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation H.E. Hor Namhong, as Agent representing the Kingdom of Cambodia, emphasized the importance of the interpretation of the 1962 Judgment, which will end definitely the border dispute between the two neighboring countries.

The Cambodian DPM also explained the need for interpretation of the 1962 Judgment by the disagreement between both sides on the meaning and scope of the Judgment and by the way Thailand have imperfectly applied the provisional measures decided by the Court in its Order of July 18, 2011.

On April 28, 2011, Cambodia submitted to the ICJ its request for the interpretation of the Court's Judgment of June 15, 1962 in the case concerning the Temple of Preah Vihear.

On July 18, 2011, the ICJ ordered Cambodia and Thailand to immediately withdraw their military personnel from the provisional demilitarized zone around the Temple of Preah Vihear; refrain from any military presence within that zone and from any armed activity directed at that zone.

The ICJ's Judgment of 1962 ruled that the Temple of Preah Vihear is situated in territory under the sovereignty of Cambodia. The Court found that Thailand is under obligation to withdraw any military or police forces, or other guards or keepers, stationed by her at the Temple, or in its vicinity on Cambodian territory. Thailand is under an obligation to restore to Cambodia any objects of the kind specified in the Cambodia's fifth submission which may, since the date of the occupation of the Temple by Thailand in 1954, have been removed from the Temple or the Temple area by the Thai authority.
